Links for Researchers, and Truth Seekers

Posted on August 8, 2021 by Marjo — No Comments.

Last update: April 2, 2022

This page was created for the convenience of researchers and for people looking for truths. I do NOT endorse anyone within and I do NOT receive any monetary gains. When I post an affiliate link within a paragraph, anywhere on my website, you will see that I am selling a product in which I would receive a percentage when I have (affiliate link) next to it. The advertising to the side of each pages are affiliate links that I believe in and have used myself. The only way you can help me financially, at this time, is to purchase from one of my affiliates, or through my Rumble Channel, hopefully that will change in the future.

All of our lives, we were told what to think, what was right and what was wrong, and in 2020 that whole scenario flipped. If you are waiting for the “news media” to tell you what to think, and what to believe, when you start doing research you will find out they are all being paid to lie.

It's time people learn to be skeptical and stop taking everyone's word as gospel just because someone calls themselves “experts” or wear a white coat. It's time people learn to think for themselves.

Notes:

- Using the main stream media, Google search, and the likes to find the truth is like asking a narcissist if he is lying.
- Beware of copycat accounts, there are many passing themselves for someone else and for someone they are not.
- Something that always helped me is writing down what I find interesting, or anything I want to research further before I decide to share my new found information with the public. I use a spreadsheet using OpenOffice.
- It helps if you do research with a trusted friend or family member of like mind and discuss the pros and cons.
- If you think you don't have time to do research, I suggest you turn off your tel-a-vision which has been programming you your whole life. There are reasons why they are called “programs”. That is specially true if you have young children being indoctrinated, right now, by the tel-a-vision.

Why am I doing this?

Because WWG1WGA (Where We Go One, We Go All)

Like all qualified medical doctors who have told the truth about covid-19, Dr Vernon Coleman has been repeatedly lied about and libelled on the internet and in the mainstream media. In March 2020, after studying the covid death figures and comparing the death statistics in the UK to that of previous years, Dr Coleman said that the threat of covid-19 had been wildly exaggerated and that there was no pandemic. In that first video, he warned that the pandemic fraud (or hoax) would result in the deaths of many old people (which it did), the introduction of mandatory vaccinations (which appears to be happening) and the disappearance of cash (now a serious threat). As a result of his video, his Wikipedia page was deliberately and dramatically changed by government employees and used to ‘monster’ him. All his lifetime achievements were removed. Without any evidence or justification he was, among other things, labelled a ‘conspiracy theorist’ and said to be ‘widely discredited’. Google, which works with Wikipedia, reproduced the lies in an attempt to discredit him, so that nobody would believe his warnings. Biographies on www.vernoncoleman.com include references.

Warnings, Forecasts and Predictions

Vernon Coleman's track record of spotting health dangers is second to none. Since the 1970s, when his first two ground breaking books (The Medicine Men and Paper Doctors) were published, Dr Coleman has been gaining friends among patients and enemies among doctors and drug companies.

In The Medicine Men (1975), Vernon Coleman drew attention to the dangerously close relationship between the medical establishment and the pharmaceutical industry. In Paper Doctors (1977) he argued that most medical research is done for the benefit of researchers (and drug companies) and that the money would be better spent on using the information we already have and encouraging the public to avoid known health hazards.

Vernon Coleman, a Sunday Times bestselling author, is one of the few medically qualified authors writing on medical matters without bias and without any professional or commercial commitments or allegiances.

His honesty has made him many enemies among the medical establishment and the establishment's commercial alliances. His predictions, forecasts and warnings have often been made years (and, in many cases, decades) before anyone else has unearthed and understood the evidence or had the courage to speak out. In addition, in many of his medical books and thousands of newspaper and magazine articles he has drawn attention to the dangers of using specific over the counter and prescription drugs.

There are hundreds of other articles on health, politics and animal issues on www.vernoncoleman.com
